1	WHEREAS, cholangiocarcinoma, also known as bile duct cancer, is a cancer that occurs in the bile ducts in or
2	outside the liver that play a key role in the digestive cycle; and
3	WHEREAS, there are three types of cholangiocarcinoma based on the location they occur: intraheptic, located in
4	the smaller bile duct branches in the liver, perihilar, located where the left and right hepatic ducts have joined and are
5	leaving the liver, and distal, which is located near the small intestine; and
6	WHEREAS, nearly 2,000 to 3,000 Americans develop cholangiocarcinoma every year; and
7	WHEREAS, the average age of those with cholangiocarcinoma is 72, however approximately 1/3 of those
8	diagnosed are under 65, with the youngest known patient being 12; and
9	WHEREAS, early detection can be key in treating cholangiocarcinoma, but only a small number of cases are
10	found early enough to be removed by surgery; and
1	WHEREAS, because it is difficult to detect and diagnose cholangiocarcinoma due to the bile ducts being deep in
12	the body and there not being a reliable blood test, when diagnosed, patients usually present with more developed tumors;
13	and
14	WHEREAS, there is currently no cure for cholangiocarcinoma; and
15	WHEREAS, the 5-year survival rate for this type of cancer is 2 to 30%; and
16	WHEREAS, increased awareness and research of this cancer could lead to earlier detection and better treatments
17	in the future; and
18	WHEREAS, different foundations, research centers, and charities throughout the world have come together to
19	raise awareness of cholangiocarcinoma with World Cholangiocarcinoma Day; and
20	WHEREAS, Kelly green signifies cholangiocarcinoma awareness; and
21	NOW, THEREFORE:
22	BE IT RESOLVED by the Senate of the 150th General Assembly of the State of Delaware, the House concurring
23	therein, that February 12, 2019 is recognized as World Cholangiocarcinoma Day.
