

LAWS OF DELAWARE
VOLUME 83
CHAPTER 365
151st GENERAL ASSEMBLY
FORMERLY
HOUSE BILL NO. 342
AS AMENDED BY
HOUSE AMENDMENT NO. 1
AND

AN ACT TO AMEND TITLE 11 OF THE DELAWARE CODE RELATING TO TREATMENT OF PREGNANT AND POST-PARTUM PRISONERS.

WHEREAS, Delaware law currently limits the circumstances in which a pregnant person may be restrained and completely prohibits the use of restraints during labor or delivery; and

WHEREAS, the Women's Prison Association reports there is no record of escape from a woman who was not restrained during labor; and

WHEREAS, it is cruel and inhumane to add to the discomfort of women already suffering from pregnancy symptoms by shackling or restraining their limbs; and

WHEREAS, the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists affirm that shackling a pregnant inmate increases the risk of falling, impairs evaluations for serious pregnancy-associated conditions, causes pain and skin damage, and further endangers the inmate when they are at increased risk of preeclampsia; and

WHEREAS, using restraints on a person who has recently given birth may negatively impact bonding between mother and child, as well as exacerbate pregnancy-related mental health conditions such as depression and post-traumatic stress disorder; and

WHEREAS, the State must do more to protect and enhance the dignity, health, safety, and wellbeing of all pregnant and postpartum persons in its correctional system.

NOW THEREFORE:

BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE:

Section 1. Amend Chapter 66, Title 11 of the Delaware Code by making deletions as shown by strike through and insertions as shown by underline as follows:

CHAPTER 66. Restraint of ~~Pregnant Prisoners~~ Pregnant Persons in Custody

§ 6601. Findings and purposes.

The General Assembly hereby finds that the physical restraint of persons in custody during pregnancy, labor, and recovery presents serious risks to the health and well-being of mother and baby. In most circumstances, the use of restraints is unnecessary and dangerous. restraining a pregnant woman can pose undue health risks to the woman and her unborn fetus. Freedom from physical restraints is especially critical during labor, delivery, and postpartum recovery after delivery. Women often need to move around during labor and recovery, including moving their legs as part of the birthing process. Restraints on a pregnant woman can interfere with the medical staff's ability to appropriately assist in childbirth or to conduct sudden emergency procedures. Shackling is unnecessary and dangerous to a woman's well-being.

§ 6602. Definitions.
