152nd GENERAL ASSEMBLY

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 74

DESIGNATING OCTOBER AS “DYSLEXIA AWARENESS MONTH” IN DELAWARE.

1 WHEREAS, dyslexia is a learning disability that can hinder a person’s ability to read, write, spell, and sometimes
2 speak; and

3 WHEREAS, dyslexia is the most common learning disability in children and persists throughout life with 10
4 percent of the population or one out of every 10 people in the United States suffering from dyslexia; and

5 WHEREAS, dyslexia has affected some of the world’s most famous artists, innovators, and leaders; and

6 WHEREAS, dyslexia is identifiable with over 90 percent certainty in children ages five and one-half to six and 7 one-half; and

8 WHEREAS, children with dyslexia who are identified as dyslexic and provided with effective reading instruction
9 in kindergarten and first grade, will have significantly fewer problems learning to read at grade-level than children who are 10 not identified as dyslexic or provided help until third grade or later; and

11 WHEREAS, children with untreated dyslexia suffer devastating personal consequences as it is the primary reason 12 teenagers drop out of school, is a contributing factor to juvenile delinquency, and can lead to adults unable to achieve at 13 their fullest capacity; and

14 WHEREAS, proper diagnosis, early and appropriate intervention and support from family, teachers, and friends
15 will greatly increase a child’s academic success and self-esteem, however it is never too late for adults with dyslexia to 16 learn to read, and to process and express information more efficiently; and

17 WHEREAS, October is National Dyslexia Awareness Month, reminding students and their parents that difficulties
18 encountered in living with dyslexia can be overcome with early intervention and can lead to successes in adulthood; and

19 WHEREAS, during the month of October, conferences are held around the United States to promote awareness, 20 research, and early identification of dyslexia.

21 NOW, THEREFORE:

22 BE IT RESOLVED by the House of the 152nd General Assembly of the State of Delaware, the Senate
23 concurring therein, that the State of Delaware designates October as “Dyslexia Awareness Month.”

SYNOPSIS

This concurrent resolution designates October of each year as “Dyslexia Awareness Month” in Delaware. According to the United States National Institute of Health, dyslexia is a learning disability that can hinder a person’s ability to read, write, spell, and sometimes speak. Dyslexia is the most common learning disability in children and persists throughout life with 10 percent of the population or one out of every 10 people in the United States suffering from dyslexia.

Children with dyslexia who are identified as dyslexic and provided with effective reading instruction in kindergarten and first grade, will have significantly fewer problems learning to read at grade level than children who are not identified as dyslexic or provided help until third grade or after. Proper diagnosis, early and appropriate treatment, and support from family, teachers, and friends will greatly increase a child’s academic success and self-esteem; however it is never too late for adults with dyslexia to learn to read, and process and express information more efficiently.

October is National Dyslexia Awareness Month, reminding students and their parents that living with dyslexia can be tackled with early intervention. Each year during the month of October, conferences are held around the United States to promote awareness, research, and early identification of dyslexia.
