2	Labor Day; and
3	WHEREAS, the School Start Task Force concluded that a post-Labor Day start to the school year would be
4	minimally disruptive to the educational system; and
5	WHEREAS, the School Start Task Force also concluded that a post-Labor Day start to the school year could
6	deliver substantial economic benefits to many Delawareans; and
7	WHEREAS, the School Start Task Force found that Virginia, a state that requires public schools to start after
8	Labor Day, would lose $369 million, including $104 million wages, by a shortened summer. Further, the Task Force found
9	that Maryland, a state that is considering mandating public schools start after Labor Day, would generate $74.3 million in
10	new economic activity and $7.7 million in new state and local tax revenue if school started post-Labor Day; and
11	WHEREAS, these economic benefits would occur in Delaware, where the tourism industry is the 3rd largest
12	private employer in the State and visitors generated $2.2 billion towards the GDP in 2012; and
13	WHEREAS, a majority of members of the School Start Task Force voted to recommend that the State of Delaware
14	require that each school year start after Labor Day.
15	NOW, THEREFORE:
16	BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE STATE OF DELAWARE:
17	Section 1. Amend Chapter 41, Title 14, Delaware Code by making deletions as shown by strike through and
18	insertions as shown by underline as follows:
19	§ 4141. Start of the School Year.
20	A public school district, vocational-technical school district, or charter school may not begin a school year until
21	after Labor Day.
22	Section 2. This Act takes effect for the 2020/2021 school year.

SYNOPSIS

This Act requires public schools to begin their school year after Labor Day. There have been many economic impact reports done that show a positive impact from starting public schools after Labor Day. A report by the Virginia Hospitality and Travel Association estimates that $369 million would be lost if schools were not required to start after Labor Day. This includes $104 million in wages and $21 million in state and local taxes. Maryland is considering similar legislation. A study of Maryland found that pushing the start of school back would generate $74.3 million in economic activity and $7.7 million in new state and local tax revenue.

This Act takes effect for the 2020/2021 school year.
