(c) A driver is not required to remove ice and snow that accumulates on a vehicle, other than on the windshield, during a period when the vehicle is being continuously operated.

(d) When ice or snow dislodges from a moving vehicle and causes property damage or physical injury, the following civil penalties apply:

(1) The driver of a non-commercial vehicle is subject to a civil penalty of not less than $200 and not more than $1,000 for each occurrence.

(2) The operator, owner, lessee, or bailee of a commercial vehicle is subject to a civil penalty of not less than $500 and not more than $1,500 for each occurrence.

(e) No motor vehicle points may be assessed against a person for failing to comply with this section, and there may be no entry made on the person's driving record for failing to comply with this section.

(f) Notwithstanding any law to the contrary, a police officer is authorized to make an administrative stop for purposes of enforcing this section, upon reasonable and articulable suspicion that a violation of this section has occurred.

SYNOPSIS

This Act requires that accumulated snow and ice be removed from surfaces of a vehicle before it is operated and imposes a civil penalty for a violation. This Act also creates a civil penalty for each instance where snow or ice dislodges from a moving vehicle and causes property damage or physical injury but this penalty is not an exclusive remedy for property damage or physical injury.
