HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES 152nd GENERAL ASSEMBLY

HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION NO. 110

RECOGNIZING THE 4TH THURSDAY IN MARCH AS NATIONAL TUSKEGEE AIRMEN COMMEMORATION DAY.

1 WHEREAS, the Tuskegee Airmen were a group of Black pilots, aircrew, ground crew, and support personnel of the 2 U.S. Army Air Corps who fought in World War II. As the first African American flying units in the U.S. military, their many 3 successes paved the way for the desegregation of the U.S. military, which started in 1948 when President Harry S. Truman 4 signed Executive Order 9981; and 5 WHEREAS, the history of the Tuskegee Airmen dates back to World War I, when African American men attempted 6 to serve in U.S. air units but were denied entry; and 7 WHEREAS, Mr. Andre Swygert of Wilmington, Delaware, one of the most knowledgeable people in our state on 8 the history of the Tuskegee Airmen, and himself the son of a member of the airmen, has thus far in the course of his research 9 been able to identify 13 Delawareans who served in one or another of the units that were a part of the Tuskegee Airmen; and 10 he believes that further research will reveal more Delawareans who were a part of the airmen; and 11 WHEREAS, according to Mr. Swygert's research, those Delawareans known thus far to have served with the 12 Tuskegee Airmen include the following: John H. Porter, Pilot, 44-C-SE; Fred T. Johnson, Navigator, 45-12A; Clayo T. Rice, 13 Pilot, 45-A-SE; James O. Handy, Mechanic, 99th Fighter Squadron; Littleton P. Mitchell, Simulator Instructor; James E. 14 Talton, Flight Officer, 45-F-TE; Donald S. Jamison, Flight Officer, 45-F-TE; Louis R. Purnell, Pilot, 45-B-SE; Dr. Luna I. 15 Mishoe, Intelligence Officer, 477th Bomb Group; Artishia Stephens, Special Order Clerk; Henry Smith, Armorer; Maxwell 16 Honemond, Liaison Pilot, US Army; Nathan Thomas, Information/Education Specialist; John E. Brown, Jr., 617th BS, 477th 17 Bomb Group; David L. Dempsey, 617th BS, 477th Bomb Group; Saralie Draper, Squadron A, 118th AAFBU; George A. Laws, 590th Mat'l Squadron; and James H. Money, 66th AAFFTD Medical Detachment; and 18

19	WHEREAS, Mr. Swygert has noted that "the database of all participants in the 'Tuskegee Experience' consists of 20	approximately 14,000 names" and that "further research may uncover additional personnel from Delaware;" and
21	WHEREAS, another important note is that many of these men and women-those from Delaware and elsewhere-
22	went on to have very distinguished careers in many fields in civilian life after the war; and
23	WHEREAS, by 1939, only 25 African Americans were licensed pilots in the United States. This stark inequity
24	finally forced Congress to act. On June 27, 1939, Congress passed the Civilian Pilot Training Act, which prohibited exclusion
25	based on race from federally funded pilot training programs; and
26	WHEREAS, six Black colleges participated in the program: Howard University, Delaware State College, Hampton
27	University, North Carolina A&T, Tuskegee Institute, and West Virginia State College. These necessary advancements in
28	Black aviation laid the groundwork for the extraordinary achievements of African American Aviators in World War II; and
29	WHEREAS, the illustrious service record of the Tuskegee Airmen began on March 19, 1941, when the United States
30	Army Air Corps officially constituted the 99th Pursuit Squadron as the first all-Black combat squadron in the United States
31	Armed Forces. The squadron was trained at the newly constructed Tuskegee Army Air Field in Tuskegee, Alabama, a few
32	miles away from the Tuskegee Institute; and
33	WHEREAS, by June 1943, the renamed 99th Fighter Squadron was flying combat missions over Sicily and the
34	Mediterranean, supporting Allied bombers, naval formations, and other offensives. The Tuskegee Airmen scored several
35	aerial victories against German FW-190s, BF-109s, and ME-262s, eventually earning three Distinguished Unit Citations in
36	combat missions over the Mediterranean and Central Europe; and
37	WHEREAS, by World War II's end, three other all-Black Fighter Squadrons were activated, all under the 332nd
38	Fighter Group, as well as the 477th Bombardment Group flying B-25 medium bombers. Despite their successes, the Tuskegee
39	Airmen endured extreme adversity, including notably prejudiced and unsuccessful attempts to disband the 332 nd Fighter
40	Group. The Tuskegee Airmen flew over 15,000 combat sorties in World War II and received 744 air medals, including 96
41	Distinguished Flying Crosses, 14 Bronze Stars, and 8 Purple Hearts; and
42	WHEREAS, as World War II ended, the Tuskegee Airmen in the 477th Bombardment Group staged a nonviolent
43	demonstration to desegregate the officer's club at Freeman Field, Indiana. Their demonstration for racial equity, staged
44	between April 5-6, 1945, would prove to be a catalyst for the eventual desegregation of the U.S. Armed Forces. After the
45	war, the Tuskegee Airmen won one last aerial victory in 1949 when they won the first ever U.S. Air Force Aerial Gunnery
46	Competition (propeller), now known as "Top Gun," beating the best pilots in the U.S. Air Force. By July of 1949, the 332nd
47	Fighter Group, the 477th Bombardment Group, and all other all-Black Aviation units of the U.S. Air Force were deactivated
48	as the U.S. military finally moved toward full racial integration; and

- WHEREAS, The Tuskegee Airmen achieved unparalleled success, not just for their martial excellence but for their grit and determination as a trailblazing unit that would prove segregation a failed and unjust policy.

 Senate concurring therein, that the General Assembly hereby supports Congressional efforts to proclaim the fourth Thursday in March as National Tuskegee Airmen Commemoration Day.
